Lesson 1. Wonder Why?

• Have you ever wondered why Aham is sometimes written as अहम् and sometimes as अहम्?

• Have you ever wondered why Pujya Swamiji, when singing bhajans, sometimes pronounces (say for example) Aham as अहम् and sometimes as अहन्?

• The curious may move onto Lesson No. Two.
Lesson 2. आहं versus अहम्

To answer those riddles, we must first get familiar with the स्वर s (vowels) and the व्यंजन s (consonants).

अ आ इ ई उ ऊ क्र ङ लङ ए ऐ ओ औ अः are the स्वर s. They are complete in themselves and do not require the help of another letter to be pronounced. स्वर s are sixteen in number.

A व्यंजन, if not combined with a स्वर, is written with an oblique line underneath it which is called a हालन्त (halanta) or a विराम (virama). This halanta also tells you that the pronunciation of that व्यंजन is clipped.

A small example - the English word 'cup' is pronounced as कप and कप is cuppa (as in I wanna cuppa tea...gottit? )

The व्यंजन s written without the halanta such as क or say क्ष actually end in an अ

So क = क + अ, क्ष = प + ल + अ

And of course का = क + आ
The व्यञ्जन s are

Thirty five of them.

Interesting fact -

Sixteen र्वर्षs plus thirty five व्यञ्जन s make up the वर्णमाला. Add to it, three ऋ s - so that gives us fifty four. Fifty four plus fifty four, add up to a hundred and eight. We go over the entire वर्णमाला twice, forwards and backwards, when we do one माला of जप.

The व्यञ्जन s highlighted in the table are called, अनुनासिक व्यञ्जन s.
In a sentence like अहम अनमिका (i am Anamika) the म is written as म to enable it to join with the swara आ in अनामिका, to form the complete letter म। The sentence then becomes, अहमनामिका। So if a word ends in म and the word following it begins with a swara, the म is either written as म, or it is combined with the swara following it to become a म, मा, मि and so on and so forth.

In a sentence like अहें तारा, the म of the अहें is followed by the consonant त।

When the म - the last letter in a word- is followed by another word whose first letter is a consonant, the म converts itself into a dot and places itself above the previous letter. Maintaining an identity of its own, it now calls itself an अनुस्वार।

The correct form of the sentence then becomes, अहें तारा।

So म is written as म, in two cases -

1. when म is the last letter in a word and when the first letter of the word following it is a swara and

2. when it is at the end of a sentence...eg. तारा अहम। (Why does म remain a म at the end of a sentence? Beats me. Some rules are just stated and we, poor things, just accept them.)

Interesting fact -

Only म has the authority to be used as an अनुस्वार। This changes the entire concept on how to write and pronounce a word correctly.

Details in Lesson No. Three. Answers to riddle two in Lesson three too.
Lesson 3. The Anunasika -s justification for existing.

A long long time ago, knowledge was passed on from guru to shishya verbally. No books. No revision. Rehearing, definitely. The prospect of making a mistake was great. Pronunciations had to be accurate. If one invited श्वजना: instead of स्वजना: to one's feast, one could be assured of hurt neglected relatives and a smile on every canine face on the street.

The word संस्कृत itself means 'that which has been systemized.'

Just take a look at our व्यञ्जन table again, you'll begin to appreciate how systematic it is. It also gives us excellent clues on how to pronounce the अनुनासिक व्यञ्जनs. Those are the ones that really trip us up.

Please refer to our Varnamala for audio clips on the pronunciation of all the letters.

The first row beginning with क is called the कवर्ग literally meaning Class क. It includes all the व्यञ्जन s in that class... क, ख, ग, घ, ढ। Notice how the tongue remains in exactly the same place when you say these words out loud. Now, just as you would say क, say ढ, but bring out the sound nasally as well. The कवर्ग is called the कणठ:, since the sounds of this group are based in the throat.

चवर्ग। This group is called the ताधः। ताधः is the palate. Keep the tongue in the same position as you would when saying च then say च which roughly is च्व।
The rest टवर्गः...मूर्धं (the top of the palate), the तवर्गः...दन्तः: (the tongue touches the teeth every single time) and theपवर्गः... ओष्ठः: (here the lips are used) are easy to pronounce.

That's all very well but what in heaven's name are that घ्र and च doing there? When are they used? The rule is that one ought to use the अनुनासिक व्यञ्जन with only those consonants that belong to the same class.

So here's how it works-

WHEN WRITING

The correct written form of the word Shankar is शंकर and not शंकर।

The trick is to look at the व्यञ्जन immediately after the nasal sound in a word and then pair it with the अनुनासिक व्यञ्जन from its own class.

Also, only म् has the अधिकार to be used as an अनुस्वार - the dot on top of a letter at the end of a word. Therefore to give you examples of words from all the वर्ग s-

अङ्क is correct and not अङ्क।

पंच is correct and not पंच।

कण्ठ and not कण्ठ।

दन्त and not दंत।

चम्पा and not चंपा।
WHEN PRONOUNCING

Sanskrit is like water. It flows. It wants to make it easy for us to vocalize words.

Therefore the मृ in words adapts its pronunciation to flow in with the next word. In the sentence अहं तारा, the dot is pronounced like न to flow into the next letter त to whose class the न belongs. Pronounced अहं तारा (insert audio clip) and not अहम्तारा (And written अहे तारा।) अहे कान्त्या is pronounced as अहड़ कान्त्या (insert audio clip). The मृ should sound like ढ। Therefore, अहें टिपु सुल्तान is pronounced as, अहण् टिपु सुल्तान (insert audio clip). If we have royally confused you, let us know.

So how does one pronounce the anuswaara if it is just before a consonant that is not placed in a varga?

Simply pronounce the anuswaara as a nasal sound and then voice the consonant after it. -

1. संभोग (insert audio clip)

2. संरक्षक - (insert audio clip)

3. श्रृङ्ख्ला is pronounced as श्रृङ्ख्ला (insert audio clip) because of grammar rules. You'll be taught that when it is time, but for the moment whenever you see a मृ followed by a ठ, nasalise the मृ and then when saying ठ, place a little stress on the ठ so that it sounds doub-double.

4. संबाद (insert audio clip)

5. संञ्चय (insert audio clip)
6. संस्तुत (insert audio clip)

7. सिद्ध (insert audio clip)
Lesson 4. Placating Visarga

विसर्गः, the two dots sometimes found at the end of a word, is not pleased with me. Here is what he has been thinking......

Don't want him unhappy. We need him a great deal in the days to come and we can't afford to get him mad. So here goes...

Over the centuries विसर्गः too has become extremely adaptable. In an isolated word, he takes the sound of the swara just before him. For example- रामः is pronounced रामहः, हरिः is pronounced हरिहः, गुरुः is pronounced गुरूहः, मतिः is मतिहः, वानरः is वानराहः, मालाभिः is मालाभीहः। And so on and so forth.

I think he is happy now.

Interesting fact? No... sad, sad fact. Many schools have dropped the ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ ङ्ङ from the वर्णमाला because they might "confuse our kids. These so called do-gooders have spawned an entire generation of children who read शंकर as Shadkar instead of Shankar. Forget the Gods, the Rishis have not been spared either - i have heard that ऋ will soon be given a 'termination of services' notice. And keep this to yourselves- rumour has it that the विसर्गः too will be struck off the rolls. i loathe to think what विसर्गः will feel when he hears this bit of self defeating news.
OUR lessons WILL stick to the original वर्णमाला. I'd like to believe that she (वर्णमाला, i mean) feels safe and protected with us.

Interesting fact 2-

The विस्म्र्ग्न in the ancient days was pronounced as an expulsion of breath, as a 'huh' and did not take the sound of the swara before it. Insert audio clip – Shiva. Its pronunciation however sometimes changed with what came after it. Will tell you more about this later!)}
Lesson 5. Meet our exuberant Jagadish

When we entered our Sanskrit class for the very first time, we were greeted very enthusiastically by an energetic and bubbly youngster called Jagadisha. He spoke only in Sanskrit but in the space of a few minutes, we figured out what was happening.

Just by asking questions and answering them himself (and with exaggerated gestures and an infectious smile!) our vocabulary jumped up from zero to five.

No kiddin’. Take a look...

He looked at Mala and said- मम नाम जगदीशः। (My name is Jagadish.)

अहे जगदीशः। (I am Jagadish.)

भवती का? (Who are you? .... भवती is the respectful feminine form of you as in the Hindi आप | का = feminine who)

भवत्या: नाम किम्? (What is your name?)

Mala answered मम नाम माला | अहे माला |

Jagadish next pointed to Chaitanya. भवान कः? (Who are you?) (भवान = masculine आप | कः = masculine who)

भवत: नाम किम्? ( What is your name?)

Chaitanya answered अहे चैतन्यः। मम नाम चैतन्यः।
Our Jagadish grabbed Chaitanya by the shoulder and said (This is Chaitanya) and pointing to a man seated some distance away asked,

स: क: ? (who is he?)

Chaitanya answered स: रवि: । (He is Ravi)

Jagadish then said, एषा माला । (This is Mala)

and to Mala said, एषा: चैतन्य: । This is Chaitanya)

( Pointing to Ravi and Saraswati seated some distance away,)

स: क: ? सा का? स: रवि: । सा सरस्वती।

Jagadish next called out to Ravi, सा का? (Who is she?)

Ravi answered, एषा सरस्वती। सा माला। (This is Saraswati. That is Mala)

Those sitting close to you are एषा: (he-this) or एषा(she-this)

Those a little away from you are सा(he-that) or सा (she-that)

Game for a game?
You are Suraj. Next to you are seated Ram and Sita. Away from you are Lakshmi and Shibi (yup, the same person in the dove and eagle story ...and for those of you who want to know the story, write to me) Introduce yourself to the others and then ask the others their names. Listen to their answers and then introduce each one to the other. Pay special attention to when भवत्या: नाम किम् and when भवत: नाम किम् are used.
Lesson 5. and we are socializing in Sanskrit already!!
Lesson 6. Affronted गम् speaks up.

Dears all,

I was going through the lessons that have already been sent to you and I can't believe that I have not been given my due.

Let me introduce myself. I am गम् (go). I am a root word called a धातुः and like my other friends, वद् (speak), पठ (read/study), खाद् (eat), लिख् (write) etc, I am extremely versatile. By the simple addition of suffixes or prefixes, I can become a verb, or a noun, or an adverb, or an adjective....And that is far more than the visargas and the anusvaras of this world can even hope to be.

I think I better introduce you very gently to my multifaceted personality.

(By the way, check out definitions for verbs, nouns, adverbs, adjectives and grammatical whatchamacallits in the column to your left.)

To make me into a verb, you have to use my avatar गच्छ। Add different suffixes called प्रत्यय s and hey presto I am ready to be used! Look at the following sentences, all in the present tense and you will see what I mean. My friends have also chipped in to help.

स: गच्छति। स: वदति। स: पठति। स: खाद्ति। स: लिखति।

He goes. He speaks. He reads. He eats. He writes.
सा गच्छति। सा वदति। सा पठति। सा खादति। सा लिखति।

She goes. She speaks. She reads. She eats. She writes.

tतू गच्छति। tतू वदति। tतू पठति। tतू खादति। tतू लिखति।

It goes. It speaks. It reads. It eats. It writes.

रामः गच्छति। रामः वदति। रामः पठति। रामः खादति। रामः लिखति।

सीता गच्छति। सीता वदति। सीता पठति। सीता खादति। सीता लिखति।

Yup, the ति is added to the root verb, which makes it compatible with he, she, it, and with any name whether masculine or feminine BUT tवं गच्छसि। तवं वदसि। तवं पठसि। तवं खादसि। तवं लिखसि।

1. Do you see how the same suffix (प्रत्यय) has been added to all the पात्रs to make the verb compatible with a particular subject?

2. ति is loyal to सा; सा and तत्त or for that matter to, say, सुमित्रा, सुधा, दुर्गारथः, रावणः, पुस्तकः, विचारलयः etc. (पार्वति लिखति परन्तु अहं लिखामि...gettit?)

3. सि is loyal only to त्मम् AND मि is loyal only to अहम्।
4. Please note that it is पढ़ामि and not पढ़ामो। There is an ा मात्रा added to the धातु before the प्रत्यय is added.

5. गच्छति conveys both meanings 'goes' and 'is going'

6. Thus you can safely translate अहं वदामि as I speak and I am speaking.

7. Also, if you notice, since मि is loyal to अहं, I can simply say वदामि and the message that I am the one who is speaking and NO ONE ELSE, has been conveyed. Ditto with त्वम् ...the minute I say..

खाद्यसि, it's YOU who are eating and NO ONE ELSE. I do not have to even mention the अहं or the त्वम्। The ति though, does need a specified subject. (Refer to 2 for reasons why)

Knowing this, you can now make two word sentences inSanskrit using अहं, त्वम्, सि, सा and तत्त। Let me provide you with a few more "everyday"

धातु s. हस्| laugh, पच्च| cook, रक्ष| protect, नम्| namaskaar (to salute.)

Now, if you noticed, गम् (yours truly) becomes गच्छ before the suffixes are added. All the rest remain the same. Similarly, two very important धातु s - पा (drink) becomes पिवि and दृश्य (see) becomes दशय।

Henceforth, if the धातु 's form must be changed before it can be used, the usable form will be given in brackets eg: गम् (गच्छ) or पा (पिच्छ) . Use पा (पिच्छ) and दश (पस्य) too to make some more two word sentences.

If you find this lesson difficult or need clarification of any kind, please do not hesitate to write. These teachers out here can't wait to be useful. Besides, they are eager to impress Swamiji - who is an expert in Sanskrit and speaks the language fluently!

Yeah! It's my coming out ball, my debut! And honestly, I can't wait to work closely with you! More next week.

All love, गम्।
Lesson 7. Presenting the entire present tense deal.

Thou shalt not press the panic button.

Panic Button.

Thou shalt tell thyself, "So what, if Sanskrit has not just a singular and a plural but a dual as well!"

They two study.

You two study.

We two study.

Thou shalt reassure thyself, "Thank the good Lord that we do not need to learn a triple!"

Books, just books.
Here, my dears, is the works.

1. Only the प्रथमपुरुष has distinct words based on gender. (Phew!!)

M = Masculine पुरुष  F = Feminine बीचुरुष  N = Neuter नरपुरुष कलिपुरुष

2. The प्रथमपुरुष contains within it ALL the nouns and pronouns in the whole wide world EXCEPT for you, you two, all of you, I, two of us, all of us.

Therefore....

3. When the verbs of the मध्यम and the उत्तम are used, the subject need not be given. For example, if I say खाद्यः, the subject can be none but युज्वम्. It is only for the प्रथमपुरुष, that the subject has to be specified.

4. Refer to Lesson 2, on when अहं is used and when अहम्.

5. This style of presentation is what is original. Here the first preference, in true altruistic style, is given to he, she and it. These become the first person. Yet knowing that the Divine Atman resides in oneself, one refers to oneself as the उत्तमपुरुष.

6. To make Sanskrit available to a generation already accustomed to English grammar, the style that you see in various text books will be the other way around where उत्तमपुरुष is referred to as the प्रथमपुरुष...

..first person, the मध्यम is referred to as the द्वितीयपुरुष...the second person, and the third person is called the तृतीयपुरुष...
table, is the प्रथम. So certain texts - those prescribing the original format- will have the table the way it is written here and certain other texts will have it 'upsidedown'.

7. It doesn't really matter which way you learn it as long as the right form of verb is used with the right subject.

Brain Teaser....In the second stanza of the bhajan पूर्णक्लामविनं संवित्तवरूप्तिणं, who is the subject? What is the verb? (Ignore the other words that have not been taught as yet.) Those of you who do not know the bhajan, here are the words....
गुरुमूर्त्व ल्यां नमामि सततं
आत्मकामसंवर्धिति अम्बै

Exercise...Using the given table as a guide, use the correct form of the verb given in brackets and translate the following ..

1. He speaks. (वद्व)

2. We two eat. (खाद्व)

3. All of them (Feminine) see. (द्व-पश्य)

4. सा पिवाति।

5. यूः नमाथ।

6. वर्ष पठाम:।
Go over the table at least twice a day for the next few days and you will see how easily you will begin to match the verb with its subject.

The tables for the धातुं चन्द्र, पद्ध, खादु, लिख, हस, पन्च, रक्ष, नम, पा (पिव), हश (हश्च) are all there for your ready reference in the Supplement Section. Have titled it "Verb conjugations in the present tense."

May I lend you a shoulder?

When I first landed up with this memorizing process, I wasn't too sure I could do it... I had left school years ago. But once I got started, my learning ability adapted itself to my new requirements.

Once you remove the "I can't!" block from your mind, the words begin to flow. Use the words often during the day, it makes it simpler. When faced with a limited vocabulary, I have even constructed sentences like "अहें दूधम बौधम, " to connect the right verb प्रत्यय स with its subject. Try it. It's fun.

Once you are more or less comfortable with this, we can move onto our next set of lessons.

Till we meet again, "Adios Amigos!"
Lesson 7 A. Gender and Person combinations.

Sushmā Nāḍkarṇī from Australia, had a very interesting question to ask.

What subject form does one use, तौ or ते, if you want to say, "They two go," AND, if one person is a man and the other a woman?

Okey Dokey, here is what happens...(By the way, a subject is the one who performs the action in a sentence.)

RULES THAT APPLY TO ए (AND)

NOTE: There are two ways in which ए (and) is added in a sentence.

• List all the objects and add ए after the last listed object. For example:
The cat, dog, elephant, mouse ए play. This is the most common usage and is THE PREFERRED one while conversing.

• Put the ए in between all listed objects. For example: The cat ए dog ए elephant ए mouse ए play.

Musical, but a mouthful!!! File this usage, correct but rare, away in your memory bank.

Back to Sushmā's query.

• When the two are a man and a woman, the Masculine form of the pronoun always takes the preference. So one can say तौ गच्छति

For all the feminists out there, there's a way out. Say instead --- सा च गच्छति

• रामः सीता च नमतः। The dual form of the verb is used to match with the two subjects. Gottit?

• रामः सीता लक्ष्मणः च नमन्ति। The plural form of the verb with more than two subjects.

• Sometimes one may come across a sentence like. "In him neither cleanliness, nor character nor truth exists." The verb HAS to be singular. Therefore, even though the sentence contains three subjects, the verb form HAS to be singular. तर्सिम् नै शौचं न आचारं न च सत्यं अस्ति। (अस्ति) अस् the root form meaning 'be'.

• What if you have subjects from two or three different पुरुषः? In that case, use the dual or the plural form of the verb (depending on the number of subjects) and give preference to उत्तमपुरुषः first, then to मध्यमपुरुषः and last of all to प्रथमपुरुषः।

For example...

1. त्वम् अहं च गच्छावः। Since there are two people, use the dual form of the verb. Since उत्तमपुरुषः features in the sentence, use the dual form of the verb for the उत्तमपुरुष।

2. रामः तल्ल अहं च गच्छामः। Plural form AND उत्तमपुरुष।

3. रामः त्वं च गच्छसि। Dual And मध्यम।

4. ते त्वं च गच्छसि। Plural Andमध्यम।

RULES THAT APPLY TO वा (OR)

• The verb matches the subject that you place last in your sentence.

अहं वा त्वं वा गच्छसि। त्वं वा अहं वा गच्छामि। अहं वा ते वा गच्छन्ति। (Yup, वा prefers to be between all the words and at the end of the list ....he insists on making his presence felt!)

I must thank Sushmā for her question. This got me a reading and a referring again. This kind of interaction builds a quicker, greater and a very 'useful understanding' of the language, don't you think? Everybody benefits.

All questions are welcome. Looking forward to active participation from all of you. And a very, 'G'dai to you mate!'
Lesson 7 B. Sanskritofying English!!!

Something happened a few days ago...something that filled my heart with deep appreciation, pride and hope... Nimish Ubhaykar, a fifteen year old, born and brought up in the U.K., wrote to us. Deeply interested in India and Her culture, he learnt the Devanagari script to be able to learn Sanskrit. With young people like him, we can be assured that the future of Sanskrit lies in good and caring hands.

Lesson 7. seems to need further explanations. So here goes...

First let's get a few concepts absolutely clear...

Lesson 6. dealt with the introduction of a root word called a गान्धु:।

A गान्धु:। is the most flexible thing in the universe. It is the basic form of a verb and can be converted into a noun or an adjective and much else by the addition of prefixes and suffixes. Let us just concentrate on the verb aspect first. The others will be introduced by and by.

In English we have a singular and a plural.... Boy. Boys. A boy goes. Boys go.

Sanskrit has an additional 'dual' besides a singular and a plural. So we have...a boy goes, two boys go and many boys go.

Just as in English, where the verb has to match the subject ( 'Boys goes' is an absolute howler), in Sanskrit too, the verbs HAVE to match the subject. Now that Sanskrit has an additional dual, we need separate verb forms to distinguish the duals from the singulars and the plurals.
To understand grammar better, Sanskrit verbs are always shown in a tabular form. Vertically they denote 'number' and horizontally the 'person.' Let's take a peek at the table again.

गम् (to go) लक्षकार

(लक्षकार are Sanskrit words that mean the Present Tense.)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>पुरुष Person</th>
<th>एकवचन Singular</th>
<th>द्वीवचन Dual</th>
<th>बहुवचन Plural</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>प्रथम</td>
<td>गच्छति</td>
<td>गच्छतः</td>
<td>गच्छतन्ति</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>मध्यम</td>
<td>गच्छसि</td>
<td>गच्छथः</td>
<td>गच्छध</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>उत्तम</td>
<td>गच्छामि</td>
<td>गच्छावः</td>
<td>गच्छामः</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Keep the गम् table that has earlier been given in Lesson 7. alongside this one and begin to compare the two.

These concepts should come through clearly...

1. Every noun and pronoun in the dictionary (except for 'You', 'two you-s', many you-s' and 'I', 'two of us' and 'we') fall into the प्रथम ...whether cat, dog, museums, two cobs of corn, many fish, one bird, two rats.

These verbs will therefore be used for the third person... Use गच्छति with singular forms of ANY noun. Use गच्छतः with dual forms of ANY noun. Use गच्छतन्ति with plural forms of ANY noun. For example...One cat गाँवालिः। तीन गाँवालिः। तीन गाँवालिः। येन, the noun form "cat" is written differently for one cat, two cats and three or more cats...but that will be explained in Lesson 8. For the moment, combine English and Sanskrit to "remember" which verb form goes with which subject form. Similarly...one tadpole तरणति, two tadpoles तरणति: and three or more tadpoles तरणति। तू, (to swim) being the पातु।

2. तीन तुम्हां, तीन तुम्हां, इत्यादि…these fall into the मध्यम।

The subject is so specific here that just by looking at the word खाद्यसि (the suffix सि is the indicator) I know that it is you who are eating and nobody else. If I say वद्यः, the suffix थः indicates "two of you".

3. Therefore since both मध्यम and उत्तम have predetermined subjects, i needn't add the subject at all in my sentences. If I say "sing" it is unclear as to who is singing...? you? we?...but if I say गायामि, the मि tells me that "I am singing."

4. To identify the verb forms, you must look at its tail end. Catch a hold of the suffix... is it तिः, तः, अन्ति, सि, थः, थः, मि, वः, मः...and then
Lesson 7. into giving us a solution...

गुरुमूर्त्ति त्वां नमामि सततं
आत्मकाम संवर्धिनि अम्ब।

नमामि tells you that the one who is performing the namaskaar is none but "I." Simple.

Use these verb suffixes with their matching subjects to form Sanskrit/English sentences...until our vocabulary grows. अहं singaामि , त्वं meditateसि , two elephants trumpetेत् , Mother cookि , Father snoreति ।

...sentences like that , till the verb suffixes- subject combinations have more or less been memorized. Go on to the next lesson. Once you have finished reading Lesson 8 and Lesson 8 A, come back to Lesson 7, things will begin to make sense then. If you are still in a soup, write to the chef ( yours truly).

Let's see if i can tease my brain into coming up with better explanations!

Looking forward to your feedback.

Lesson 8. Insights into विभक्ति s

Have a look at these two sentences...

• The cat drinks milk.
• Milk drinks the cat.

In most languages, the minute the words are shifted around, the meaning of the sentence changes.

Sanskrit is musical. It is rhythmic. Almost everything that we have in our shastras, our scriptures, our texts, are all set to a particular metre in the form of poetry. We needed the freedom to be able to put words in any order in a sentence, without any changes to the meaning of what had to be conveyed.

The only way to ensure that was to convert a preposition into a suffix, a प्रत्यय, and then add that to the noun. The noun plus the preposition-turned-into-suffix became a completely new word whose meaning became crystal clear. (A preposition is a word in a sentence that shows the relationship between two or more nouns/pronouns. For example.. She sat under a tree. Krishna spoke to Raghava.

They played with bats and balls. What we essentially do in Sanskrit is write the word "under tree" as "treeunder", "to Raghava " as "Raghavato" and "with bats and balls" as "batsballswith" The subject's word form, as in the one performing the action, remains unchanged. The changes occur with the other noun or pronoun in the sentence with whom the subject seeks to establish a relationship. Clarity any clearer??!! )

It was a long time ago. The early morning was vibrant in the silence of meditation. The Rishi Budhakaushik had disappeared within himself. The Lord Shiva, in His infinite grace, gave to the Rishi the Ramaraksha stotra. In it, is a beautiful verse...

रामो (राम:) राजमणि: सदा विजयते रामं रमेशं भजे।
रामेणाभिहता (रामेण अभिहिता) निशाचरचमूः रामाय तस्मै नमः।
रामात नास्ति परायणं परतरं रामस्य दासोदस्यहम्।
रामे चित्तव्यः सदा भवतु मे हे राम मामुद्र।

Notice how the word राम appears in many different forms in the verse.

Each of them convey a different meaning. Let's go through each one of them in sequence.

राम: is the subject form. रामं becomes the object form. रामेण means 'by or with Rama.' रामाय signifies 'for Rama.' रामात is 'from Rama.' रामस्य conveys the meaning 'Rama's.' रामे is 'in Rama.' And राम by itself, is the form the word takes when calling out to someone named Rama.
Let us put it in the form of a table to make it easier to refer to.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>विभक्ति</th>
<th>एकवचन (singular)</th>
<th>द्विवचन (dual)</th>
<th>बहुवचन (plural)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>प्रथमा subject</td>
<td>रामः</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>द्वितीया object</td>
<td>रामं</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>रामे</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>सम्बोधन (used when calling out to..)</td>
<td>(हे) राम</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Now, रामः is an अकारान्त पुण्डरिक word. That means that it ends in the sound अ, and is a masculine word. If you remember, म = म् + अ.

There are lots of masculine words that end in अ. For example, बालक (boy), वृक्ष (tree), ग्रन्थ (book), कर्ण (ear), छात्र (student) besides so many names like शिव, महेश, अमर etc.

Since Sanskrit is so musical, all I have to do is make sure that my words rhyme. For example if I have to say "from the book," I look at the word for "from Rama" It says रामात्। So therefore, "from the book" JUST HAS to be ग्रन्थात्। Simple. I can see eyebrows raised over the blank spaces for the dual and plurals. Are they needed? You can betcha bottom dollar that they are! What in the world would you say for "I hear with my two ears?" Or for that matter, "All my students fell asleep while reading my lesson?"

Therefore, here now is the entire table.
राम अकारान्त पुनिःध्रु (Just to look at my dears, don't get flustered!)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<tr>

<td>(हें) रामो</td>
<td>(हें) रामा:</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

I have tried to show you that certain words are repeated in the table by clubbing them together in the same colour. They are used not too often, that is why the need to create new words did not present itself. Thank God for small mercies...there is so much less to memorize.
New Concepts taught in this lesson

• You can arrange the words in any manner in a Sanskrit sentence.

Let me give you some concrete examples -

रामः शिवं नमति। नमति रामः शिवम्। शिवं नमति रामः। नमति शिवं रामः। शिवं रामः नमति। रामः नमति शिवम्। All these sentences mean exactly the same thing, Rama does Namaskaar to Shiva. Since Rama does the action, the Rama is picked from the प्रथमा विभक्ति। Since Shiva is the object to whom the namaskaar is done, you use the द्वितीया विभक्ति form which is शिवम्।

• A word + a preposition is used in Sanskrit...a word is NEVER used by itself.
If I use the word राम, you may safely assume that I am calling out to Ram.
If I intend using Ram as the object of my adoration, I MUST use the word रामम्। If Ram is the person performing the action, I must use the word रामः।

Hope these two concepts have been dealt with clearly in this lesson.

In a lighter vein...

Here is a little limerick that might amuse you.

The study of Sanskrit should not make one tense.
For, look at the sentence, "the birds sat on the fence."
If you mix up the words,
In the end, put the birds,
In Sanskrit, it will still make sense!

Lesson 8 A. Reinforcing Vibhaktis.

I remember going into a complete tizzy when first introduced to the vibhakti idea. I asked more questions than a talkative four year old. Luckily for me, Tarangini had the patience of a growing pearl. Here is what I gathered in an oyster.

Take a look at the present tense verb table. Besides the conjugations of the verb, the matching subject forms are also given. Ignore the verb forms and just concentrate on the subject forms. The table is broken horizontally into three पुरुष s. Divide the lot completely as so...

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>पुरुष</th>
<th>एकवचन</th>
<th>द्विवचन</th>
<th>बहुवचन</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>प्रथम</td>

<td>तौ: Two She s</td>
<td>ता: Many She s</td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>तौ: Two It s</td>
<td>तानि Many It s</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>

<th>यूर्वं / यूर्वाम्</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

<td>तैं You</td>
<td>यूर्वं You two</td>
<td>यूर्वं All of you</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>उत्तम</th>
<th>अहं/अहम्</th>
<th>आव्रो/आवाम्</th>
<th>वर्मं / वचम्</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>अहं I</td>
<td>आव्रो We two</td>
<td>वर्मं All of us</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Now let's concentrate on the प्रथम पुरुष.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>प्रथम</th>
<th>एक्वचन</th>
<th>द्विवचन</th>
<th>बहुवचन</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Person</td>
<td>Singular</td>
<td>Dual</td>
<td>Plural</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>प्रथम</td>
<td>म</td>
<td>सः He</td>
<td>तौ Two He s</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>मा</td>
<td>रामः, हरिः, मुः</td>
<td>तौ Two He s</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>मा</td>
<td>सा She</td>
<td>तौ Two She s</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>मा</td>
<td>रमा, मलि:, नदी</td>
<td>तौ Two It s</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>

<td>तत् It</td>
<td>तौ Two It s</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>मा</td>
<td>गृहमः, वनमः</td>
<td>तौ Two It s</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

At the risk of sounding terribly repetitious and boring..
1. The प्रथम पुरुष accommodates every single noun and pronoun in the dictionary except for those of the मध्यम and the उत्तम.
2. Therefore, रामः गच्छति, गृहः गच्छति, रमा गच्छति, माला गच्छति, मृहः गच्छति, वनः गच्छति.
Just as there are अकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words like राम, बालक there are उकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words like गुरु, भानु (sun), शिश्व (child), साधु and there are इकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words like कवि, हरि, गिरि

1. All अकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words are declined like, made to rhyme like, राम।
2. All उकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words are declined like गुरु।
3. All इकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words are declined like हरि।

उकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words and इकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words are declined differently from अकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words BUT the most beautiful thing is that Sanskrit allows us the freedom to convert all words into अकारान्त पुंशित्क्रम words and decline them like राम। For instance, why not convert गुरु into गुरुदेव or maybe हरि into नारायण। Makes conversation simple!

These antics are alright in the beginning but eventually we will have to learn all the forms of different words simply so that we may recognize them in shlokas and texts. (We'll take it easy... i shan't give you more than you can chew. And that's a promise.)
Similarly we have different ending feminine words and neuter words. All rhyming words are declined in the same manner. BUT remember that a masculine word is rhymed with its masculine counterpart; a feminine one with its feminine rhyming counterpart; and a neuter with a neuter.

Just try and understand this concept. Things will become clearer as we proceed and i will keep explaining and repeating concepts for as long as you require me to.

Just hit the feedback button on our Sanskrit page, relate your woes and we'll provide instant relief! The Agony Aunts and Uncles here are a prompt lot.

See you next week!

******************************************************************************

Much as you have been introduced to verbs and nouns that change their shape and size at the drop of a hat, there are some heartwarming, steady ones that never, ever "metamorphosize." (Ah! NOW the reference to caterpillars becomes clear!)
You can use them with any noun, verb, vibhakti, gender, tense, you name it, they hold their own, in a changing world. They are called, अन्य व. Let's go through a group of them in every lesson.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Sanskrit</th>
<th>English</th>
<th>Hindi</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>कि / किम्</td>
<td>what</td>
<td>क्या</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>अत्र</td>
<td>here</td>
<td>यहाँ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>तत्र</td>
<td>there</td>
<td>बहाँ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>यत्र</td>
<td>from-where (whence)</td>
<td>जहाँ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>कृत्र</td>
<td>where</td>
<td>कहाँ</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>एकत्र</td>
<td>all together</td>
<td>साथ में</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>सर्वत्र</td>
<td>everywhere</td>

</tbody>
</table>

So I can accurately say
अहं तत्र गच्छामि। लं तत्र गच्छः। सः तत्र गच्छति। रामः तत्र गच्छति।
आवः तत्र गच्छाव: I ....and so on and so forth.

Having introduced our Non-Caterpillars, shall we get familiar with our Caterpillars?
In a sentence such as "Ram is eating a ladoo," Ram is the subject.
Therefore you pick the word Ram from the प्रथम विभक्ति। राम:।
The verb is "is eating" and HAS to follow the subject. Since राम: is from the प्रथमपुरुष एकवचन (Third Person Singular...according to English Grammar) the verb also has to be from the प्रथमपुरुष एकवचन ...खाद्य।
The object that is being gobbled up is the ladoo (मोदक ...the root word)
The object form of the word मोदक is मोदक ... Therefore the sentence becomes.. राम: मोदक खाद्य।
CLUE: Whenever a sentence is constructed or translated, grab (for dear life) the verb and its subject. THEN add the rest of the words to complete the sentence.
Let's add an अव्यय।
राम: मोदकम् अत्र खाद्य।। Ram is eating a ladoo here.
राम: मोदकं तत्र खाद्य।। Ram is eating a ladoo there.
Let's change the subject AND along with it, the verb.
अहं मोदकम् अत्र खाद्यामि।। I am eating a ladoo here.
अहं मोदकं तत्र खाद्यामि।। I am eating a ladoo there.
त्वं मोदकम् अन्यत्र खाद्यसि।। You are eating a ladoo elsewhere.(Probably averse to sharing it.)
त्वं मोदकं सर्वत्र खाद्यसि।। You are eating a ladoo everywhere.(Don't even try and imagine it.)

( New Concept मोदक is a masculine word. Whenever i introduce NEW masculine words to you, i shall put an (M) next to it, neuter words will be introduced with an (N) and feminine words with an (F). To use them in sentences, change the word according to the विभक्ति table to include a preposition )
Rules that must be followed.
1. The verb HAS to agree with the कर्ता, the subject.
अहं गच्छति is an absolute no no.
2. The conjugation (Changes in a verb form) of the verb in its various forms remains the same for all three genders. The verb is bound by पुरुष person and वचन number, not by लिङ्ग gender.
रामः खाद्यति, सा खाद्यति, माता खाद्यति, तत्तन खाद्यति।

3. The subject कर्त्ता ALWAYS is in the प्रथम विभाग and the object कर्म is ALWAYS in the द्वितीया।
गजः (elephant, M), मोदकः (laddoo, M)
गजः मोदकः खाद्यति is translated as The elephant is eating a laddoo.
गजः मोदकः खाद्यति ... The ladoo is eating an elephant.

Thou shalt tread this path with care.

New Concept
Whenever you use गम् in its verb, or other yet to be introduced forms, the place to where the "going to" happens ALWAYS is in the द्वितीया विभाग। (Easier to say, add the म् or the anuswāra to wherever you are going to.)

अहं विधाताय गच्छामि। गजः बनं गच्छति। सः गृहं गच्छति।
गच्छामि विधातायम् अहम्।
The faithful shall follow me into solving the exercises in Lesson 9 A.

Lesson 9 A - Exercises in sentence building.

Let's build a vocabulary now. The अ ending masculine (अकारान्त पुंश्चर्ण ) noun "राम " has already been introduced. We will work with just the first two vibhaktis today. Subsequent lessons will introduce one vibhakti at a time.

Time now to introduce a new concept....

Whenever new verbs are introduced, the प्रथमपुरुष एक्वचन will be given in brackets alongside the धातु। For example, ह्रश् (पश्यति)। All you have to do is separate the word पश्यति into पश्य + ति and understand that the usable verb form is the first part of the word. You can build an entire present tense table based on this by the addition of प्रत्यय s (suffixes) as so..

ह्रश् (पश्यति) to see स्त्रोतलकार (present tense )

<table>

Example sentences.
1. He is reading. स: पढ़ति
2. Those two men are reading. मनुष्यो पढ़तः

Recall...All nouns and pronouns except for the ले, शुद्ध, नूतन, अहं, आवां and चारें fall into the प्रथमपृष्ठ। Therefore logically, two men HAVE to be matched with पढ़त: the dual प्रथमपृष्ठ verb. And since there are two men, the word for two men HAS to rhyme with रामो which makes it मनुष्यो।
3. What is happening there? तत्र किं भवति?
Whatever is happening also falls into the प्रथमपृष्ठ। Since it appears to be singular, भवति is used.
4. The boy is going there. बालकः तन्त्र गच्छति।

Try doing the rest on your own. Answers are provided in Lesson 9B. But you shall be honest and take a peek only after you have tried completing the exercise.

Translate.
1. He is reading.
2. He is laughing there.
3. The boy is going to school.
4. Ram is going to the village.
5. The king is going elsewhere.
6. Where is the boy laughing?
7. Ram and Ishwar are studying (Refer to lesson 7 A).
8. Ram is namaskaaring (for lack of an appropriate word!) Ishwar.
9. The two are reading here.
10. Two boys are laughing.
11. Two men are going to the village.
12. Two boys are going to school.
13. All the boys are laughing.
14. All the men are going to the village.
15. All the boys are namaskaaring Ram.
16. Ram is namaskaaring all the boys.

Correct these sentences.
1. स: पळतः।
2. स: पळन्निः।
3. तौ पळतिः।
4. ते पळति।
5. बालकः हःन्निः।
6. स: गःच्छन्निः।
7. रामः ग्रामः गःच्छन्निः।
8. ते कः पळति।
9. ते किम् पळन्निः।

Seems more than enough for a first time session. Will see you next week. By the way, you may take that peek now. You have my blessings.

Lesson 9 B. Answers to questions in Lesson 9 A

1. He is reading. स: पढ़ति।
2. He is laughing there. स: तत्र हसति।
3. The boy is going to school. बालकः विद्यालयं गच्छति।
4. Ram is going to the village. रामः ग्रामं गच्छति।
5. The king is going elsewhere. नृपः अन्यत्र गच्छति।
6. Where is the boy laughing? बालकः कुत्र हसति।
7. Ram and Ishwar are studying. रामः ईश्वरः च पढ़तः।
8. Ram is namaskaaring Ishwar. रामः ईश्वरं नमति।
9. The two are reading here. तौ अत्र पढ़तः।
10. Two boys are laughing. बालकः हसति।
11. Two men are going to the village. मनुष्यः ग्रामं गच्छतः।
12. Two boys are going to school. बालकः विद्यालयं गच्छतः।
13. All the boys are laughing. बालकः हसन्ति।
14. All the men are going to the village. मनुष्यः ग्रामं गच्छन्ति।
15. All the boys are namaskaaring Ram. बालकः रामं नमति।
16. Ram is namaskaaring all the boys. रामः बाल्कान् नमति।

Corrected sentences.

1. स: पढ़तः। स: पढ़ति।
2. स: पठन्ति। ते पठन्ति।
3. तौ पढ़ति। तौ पढ़तः।
4. ते पढ़ति। ते पढ़न्ति।
5. बालकः हसन्ति। बालकः हसति।
6. स: गच्छन्ति। स: गच्छति।
7. रामः ग्रामं गच्छन्ति। रामः ग्रामं गच्छति।
8. ते किं पठति। ते किं पठन्ति।
9. ते किम् पठन्ति। ते किं पठन्ति।

How was the goin'?
Summing up Month 1.

What you would have achieved at the end of Month 1.

Know...

• When to use म् and when to use an अनुस्वार।
• How to correctly write a word with अनुमानिक व्याख्या।
• How to correctly pronounce म् or an अनुस्वार ending word depending on what letter follows it.
• That nouns and pronouns may be masculine, feminine or neuter.
• That nouns, pronouns and verbs can be singular, dual or plural.
• That all "same ending" masculine words are declined alike.
• Ditto for same ending feminine words. Ditto neuter.
• Suffixes have to be added to a verb root form to match the subject.
• That nouns or pronouns have to be attached to a preposition before they can be used.
• That the subject is picked from the प्रथमा विभक्ति।
• That the object is picked from the द्वितीया विभक्ति।
• That Sanskrit verbs are so familiar simply because we use them everyday when speaking our own mother tongue.
• That wherever is the place that one is going to, the place falls in the द्वितीया विभक्ति। That is, it ends in a म् or an अनुस्वार।
• That अन्य- s are words that do not change their form.

And that's tremendous progress, if i do say so myself!
